To whom it may concern

I have had the pleasure of working with Jolene Martin-Morgan for many years on various different projects. I have directed her on numerous live broadcasts, training videos and corporate programmes.

Jolene has the incredible ability to handle all the various television formats like a true professional. She is totally at ease working with an earpiece and manages to keep the flow of the programme while taking direction. She is also able to read autocue as well as ad lib with great ease. Jolene has conducted many on-camera interviews - from the CEO of financial institutions to school children - with total professionalism. She is always well researched and questions with authority on all subjects. She also shows great enthusiasm and compassion for her guests.

I have worked with her under great pressure which is never apparent in her presentation. She is multi-skilled with the ability to burst into song where needed! She also has the ability to adapt her appearance to suit the role. From the highend business woman to the funky presenter, she can do it all with ease and confidence.

Jolene is the kind of presenter that makes a director's job both easy and enjoyable. She is an asset to any programme as she always delivers. It is a privilege to work with her.
